Bath Founded in 1705, this quaint town claims the first library and church in the state. A visit here is like stepping back in time and will quickly win you over. For a brief period the dreaded pirate Blackbeard lived on Plum Point.

Belhaven Sailors and fishermen alike prefer this small town harbor for its immediate access to the intracoastal waterway and down-to-earth friendliness. Historic River Forest Manor is host to many lively shindigs.

At Beacon Street, we are not simply building homes; we are mindfully and artfully knitting together the fabric of vibrant communities. We are a Raleigh-based boutique developer, crafting opportunities to live in the heart of beloved communities. From historic neighborhoods in Raleigh and Durham to the vibrant North Carolina coast like Moss Landing in Washington, NC, our past and current projects celebrate and enrich the unique character of each place.

Immersed in the history, design, architecture, culture, and landscapes of these cherished neighborhoods, we walk the streets, observing how people move and meet. We meticulously consider sunlight, breezes, and every detail that shapes a space, guided by deep conversations and keen insights gathered from the residents themselves.

With each project, we strive to be thoughtful stewards of place, connecting past and present, classic and contemporary, neighbors and newcomers, parks and streetscapes, living spaces and gathering spaces. We believe in creating homes designed for modern living, built to become cherished havens for generations to come. We see ourselves as partners in creating communities where connection and inspiration flourish, leaving a lasting legacy that inspires generations to come.

Historical Concepts is an architectural partnership established in 1982 to enrich the built environment with the time-honored principles of traditional architecture and planning. From our offices in Atlanta and New York, we work with quality-minded individuals, developers and civic clients to create homes, civic /commercial buildings, neighborhoods and communities that are timeless in style and enduring in value.

As architects and planners, we look at each project from a holistic perspective, designing at all scales, from 1/16" inch to 1,600 acres. We rely heavily on local precedent to guide our design process, looking closely at materials, history, architecture, urbanism, and its evolution over time. This knowledge of hindsight leads to foresight, anchoring our work within its physical context, giving it a timeless quality, and resulting in a place to be enjoyed by future generations.

With an established history of contributing to nationally recognized and award-winning projects, the firm has five decades of experience in creating value through well detailed traditional design.
