RE: Proposed development of the lands owned by Mary Lytle located in Section 12,
Township 03 North, Range 12 East, Town of Center, Rock County, Wisconsin

Dear Sir/Madame:

Please find the enclosed concept plans for the Lytle property. We have included two (2) concept plans for this property. One of the concept plans is in compliance with the current zoning ordinance of the Town of Center. The second concept plan meets the density goals of the zoning ordinance Town of Center, however it utilizes alternate design techniques that we believe will protect the natural features of the property, allow for growth in the Town tax base and require less Town tax monies for maintenance the proposed home sites.

We are requesting that this proposed development be placed on the upcoming Town Plan Commission Meeting, so that we may present our ideas to the Town officials and discuss this development at length.

We would appreciate that you advise us as to the date and time of this meeting by calling or e-mailing the information to Eric W. Sandsnes, (608) 274-0500, Ext 13, Fax (608) 274-4530 or email esandsnes@royaloakengineering.com.

Subject: Managed Forest Law site visit follow up, Order #54-001-2005

Dear Ms. Lytle,

I am contacting you to inform you that a routine site inspection was conducted on your property recently to verify the need for mandatory practices that were scheduled in your original forest management plan. In the management plan that was prepared for your property when it was enrolled in Managed Forest Law the plan called for mandatory thinnings in stands 1 and 2 to be completed no later than 2020. After having inspected the property it was determined that there is not a sufficient volume of timber to warrant these scheduled thinnings in 2020. Due to current forest conditions, there is no need for this practice to take place within this MFL contract period. There are areas that may be overstocked with trees where we would recommend a non-commercial crop tree release thinning.

If you have any questions regarding this notice please feel free to contact me. My telephone number is (920) 387-7884 or my e-mail address is randy.stampfl@wisconsin.gov.

Sincerely,

Randy Stampfl

Attached maps show the location of Managed Forest Lands and the areas open or closed to public access.

The purpose of the Managed Forest Land Law is to encourage the growth of future commercial crops through sound forestry practices which consider the objectives of individual property owner, forest aesthetics, wildlife habitat, erosion control, protection of endangered or threatened plants and animals, and compatible recreational activities. Forestry under the law "means managing forest lands and their related resources, including trees and other plants, animals, soil, water and air." To guide the Department in fulfilling this stewardship objective, a statement of the owner's forest management objectives is required in the plan. The following statement has been provided either by the landowner or developed with the assistance of the Department. By signing this plan, the landowner(s) agree to comply with it. (The law specifically prohibits use of Managed Forest Lands for commercial recreation, industry, human residence, grazing of domestic livestock or other uses the Department deems incompatible with the practice of forestry.)

Landowner Objectives for Management of the Enrolled Lands:

Timber production, wildlife habitat, wetland.

The following pages include descriptions of vegetative or physical areas called "stands." Mandatory forestry practices which must be completed by the landowner(s) during the contract period are listed. Optional forestry activities may also be provided. Regarding mandatory practices, failure to complete them by the end of the specified year may result in withdrawal from the program and payment of a substantial withdrawal tax. The plan may be revised only with consent of both the landowner and the Department. If timber is to be harvested, a cutting notice on Department forms is required at least 30 days prior to cutting. Cutting under the notice may be commenced within one year of the date approved by the Department. Details concerning harvests, taxes, transfers, and other terms of the Managed Forest Law can be found under Chapter 77, subchapter IV, Wis. Stats., and in Chapter NR 46 of the Wisconsin Administrative Code. (Copies of the law or rules are available from the Department upon request. Landowners may also contact their local DNR forester for assistance.

ORDER # 54 001 2005

REGIONAL LANDSCAPE OVERVIEW: This property, in central Rock County, is located in an area of rolling to steep terrain. The soils are silt loam and sandy loam overlaying calcareous gravelly glacial till. This property is located on the Johnstown moraine. This moraine marks the furthest southward movement of the Green Bay lobe during the most recent period of glaciation in Wisconsin. A moraine is a ridge of rocks, sand and gravel deposited as the glacial ice melts and recedes. This portion of Rock County is a mixture of agricultural and wooded rural residential land. See the enclosed "Regional Landscape Overview of Rock County" for more detailed information.

GENERAL PROPERTY DESCRIPTION: Mary Lytle purchased this property in 2002 from Alvin Bluhm. The property is mostly wooded and includes a home with several outbuildings and a small pasture area (3+ acres have been excluded for these uses). The previous owner used portions of the woods for extensive pasturing of various animals. An inactive gravel pit is adjacent to this property to the southwest. Ms. Lytle lives on this property and wishes to practice proper stewardship on her land.

Gypsy Moth – Gypsy moth is an invasive insect that defoliates trees during its larval life stage (June through early July). Favored hardwood tree species are especially susceptible. Less preferred tree species can also be defoliated if in proximity to favored trees when gypsy moth populations are high. Favored tree species include: all oaks, aspens, basswood, white birch, tamarack and willows. Less preferred species include: butternut, elms, hickories, pines, walnut, boxelder, yellow birch, cherries, cottonwood, ironwood, maples and spruces. Heavy defoliation from gypsy moth outbreaks will occur about every ten years, so you can expect to see outbreaks within the length of your MFL contract.

A gypsy moth outbreak is not a cause to panic! Although defoliation can cause tree death, it doesn't always. Mortality is typically the result of multiple stresses occurring together. Defoliation, drought, windstorm damage, other insects, diseases and overcrowding are all tree stressors. Managing your forest to keep trees healthy is your best defense in reducing losses from gypsy moth outbreaks. Completing the thinnings and harvests that are required in your management plan will promote vigorous growth and tree health. While beneficial, thinning and harvesting can cause short-term stress, so avoid these practices within two growing seasons of heavy defoliation or drought.

Prior to establishing a harvest or thinning, you should conduct a survey of gypsy moth egg masses. If sampling indicates a density of gypsy moth egg masses greater than 1,000 per acre, you should delay harvesting or thinning until the outbreak is past and the trees have recovered. Aerial spraying to suppress an outbreak may be an option for protecting regeneration or high value timber.

Information on gypsy moth management strategies is included with this plan. Information on how to predict outbreaks and the DNR suppression spray program is available from your local DNR forester.

STAND DESCRIPTIONS and MANAGEMENT NEEDS

STAND 1: CH 11 - 15² / CH 5 - 11² 11 acres

DESCRIPTION: This is a medium-stocked stand of central hardwood small sawtimber with a secondary stand of central hardwood poletimber, saplings and seedlings. Tree species include black walnut, white oak, black cherry, black oak, shagbark hickory, and elm. The ground cover is woody brush, vines and herbaceous woodland plants. The soils are Kidder silt loam and sandy loam. The terrain is rolling to steep.

OBJECTIVE: The objective is to manage this stand for good quality hardwood sawtimber on an all-aged basis. Emphasis will be placed on tree species that will produce high quality timber and provide valuable wildlife habitat.

MANDATORY PRACTICES: A thinning harvest shall be conducted no later than 2020. A professional forester can mark the trees to be harvested, reducing stocking to no less than the "B" level of the central hardwood stocking chart. The objective of this thinning will be to release crop trees, remove scattered mature trees and to eliminate undesirable species. Species to choose as crop trees include oak, walnut, cherry and hickory trees that show good form and growth characteristics. Reduce or eliminate elm (due to its susceptibility to Dutch elm disease). Use best management practices for harvesting to minimize soil erosion. These practices include: harvesting only during dry or frozen ground conditions, locating skid trails to avoid the steepest slopes and seeding all skid trails and log landings as soon as possible following the harvest. Information on best management practices is included with this plan. Do not allow harvest activities from April 15 through July 1. This is the time period when oak wilt disease can be transmitted by insects to wounded or damaged trees.

STEWARDSHIP FORESTRY PLAN MANAGED FOREST LANDS

RECOMMENDED PRACTICES: Growth and species composition of this stand can be improved by conducting timber stand improvement work. "Crop tree release" cutting improves growth on the better trees in your woods by releasing them from nearby competitors. Remove or girdle trees whose crowns directly compete with or overtop the crowns of selected crop trees to create 5 to 7 feet of clear space around the crown of each crop tree. Species to select as crop trees include all oaks, black walnut, black cherry and hickory that show signs of vigorous growth and good form characteristics. Elm should be discriminated against because of its susceptibility to Dutch elm disease, which is active in this stand and will continue to spread and kill elm trees. Crop tree release work can start immediately and be conducted on an ongoing basis. Cut trees from improvement work can be used as firewood or piled for wildlife shelter.

"Weeding" removes unwanted tree and brush species from the stand. Elm, buckthorn and honeysuckle should be eliminated, especially where they compete with better trees or are inhibiting natural regeneration. The basal bark or cut stumps of weed species should be treated with an appropriate herbicide to prevent resprouting. The buckthorn and honeysuckle are non-native and invasive. Control measures should begin as soon as possible.

Garlic mustard is an invasive herbaceous plant that is invading your woodlot. The presence of this plant threatens the diversity of the native flora in your woods, especially wildflowers. Garlic mustard control is strongly recommended. Information about identification and control of this plant is included with this plan. Contact the DNR Forester before starting any improvement work to determine if cost-sharing is available. Information about herbicides for forest management is included with this plan.

As the more valuable hardwood species grow, corrective pruning may be beneficial in establishing good tree form and growth. Conduct corrective pruning on hardwood crop trees to promote straight growth of one dominant leader. Pruning should be done during the dormant season (October-March), and not more than one-third of the branches should be removed from a tree in one year. Lateral pruning can begin as the hardwoods reach a height of 10 to 12 feet. Guidelines for pruning are included with this plan. Concentrate pruning efforts on black walnut and oak trees.

RECREATION/AESTHETICS: Maintaining a mixture of tree species in your woods will give you a beautiful blend of colors in the autumn. Establish and maintain roads through this woodlot. This will allow access for weed control, improvement work and recreational uses of this area (wildlife viewing, hiking). Seed the trails in steep areas to prevent erosion.

WILDLIFE: Deer, turkeys and squirrels will be abundant as long as you maintain nut-bearing trees like oaks, hickories and walnuts. Scattered large-crowned trees (especially oaks) will serve as roost trees for turkeys. Leave three to four cull (standing dead and dying) trees per acre to provide habitat for cavity nesting wildlife species and to attract insect-feeding songbirds. Use waste logs, branches and brush from improvement cutting to form brush piles throughout the woods. Brush piles provide shelter for rodents, rabbits and other small mammals and songbirds.

STAND 2: CH 15 + 3 / CH 5 - 11 1 5 acres

DESCRIPTION: This is a well-stocked stand of central hardwood large and small sawtimber with a poorly-stocked secondary stand of central hardwood poletimber. The dominant trees are white oak, black walnut and black locust. This stand is very similar to stand 1, except for two important differences. The sapling and seedling stand, as well as the brushy and herbaceous ground cover, are non-existent due to recent heavy grazing (under the previous owner). And there is a well-established black locust clone in the southeast corner of this stand, with some stems into the small and large sawlog size classes (11-15 + inches in diameter).

OBJECTIVE: Follow the same objectives stated for stand one, but with an additional emphasis on re-establishing tree regeneration and controlling black locust.

MANDATORY PRACTICES: A thinning harvest shall be conducted no later than 2020, as described for stand 1.

RECOMMENDED PRACTICES: Control of the black locust clone as soon as possible will prevent the further spread of this invasive species. This stand is especially susceptible to invasion because the understory has been cleared by the recent grazing. The black locust can be cut and utilized as firewood, fence posts or landscape timbers. The cut stumps must be treated to kill the root systems and prevent prolific sprouting and suckering. If you do not wish to cut the trees, they can be girdled and the girdle cuts treated with an appropriate herbicide to kill the trees and their root systems.

The open ground layer in this stand provides excellent conditions for hand planting tree seedlings. This should be done within the first two to three years of this contract, before brush begins to invade, making planting conditions more difficult. Recommended species to plant include red oak, white oak, black walnut, white ash and sugar maple at a rate of 200 trees per acre (15' x 15' spacing).

Crop tree release, weeding and pruning work can be completed (as described for stand 1) as the stand develops.

RECREATION/AESTHETICS: Maintain the established roads for hiking and improvement work.

WILDLIFE: Follow the wildlife recommendations described for stand 1. In addition to trees, shrubs beneficial to wildlife could also be planted along the roads and in small clumps throughout the stand. Recommended shrub species to plant include hazelnut, ninebark and gray dogwood.

STAND 3: KG / LBD 4 acres

DESCRIPTION: This stand includes two areas which are considered non-productive (by forestry standards) at this time. The west section includes a pond and it's surrounding vegetation (reed canary grass and woody brush). In the southeast corner of this property is an open area with grassy cover and scattered trees and shrubs. The soils are Kidder silt loam with shallow, stony sections and poorly-drained Sebewa silt loam.

OBJECTIVE: Maintain the pond area for wetland and wildlife benefits. The grassy section can be managed for grassland wildlife, or converted to woodland.

MANDATORY PRACTICES: None

RECOMMENDED PRACTICES: Control invasive plants in this stand, including boxelder, buckthorn, honeysuckle and black locust. Reed canary grass is also considered invasive, but is difficult to control. Burning and/or spraying will reduce the dominance of the reed canary grass and hopefully allow other, native wetland grasses, sedges and forbes to become re-established. Information on control of reed canary grass is included with this plan. Be sure to get professional advice and assistance before conducting prescribed burns. The grassy area in the southeast corner of this stand can be maintained as grassland through mowing and/or periodic burning. If you wish to convert this area to forest, trees can be planted at a rate of 600 per acre (8' x 9' spacing). Suggested species include bur oak, red oak, white ash, white spruce and white pine.

WILDLIFE: The pond provides a water source for many animals and birds as well as a resting and feeding area for migrating waterfowl.

PROPERTY-WIDE:

THREATENED / ENDANGERED SPECIES: There is historical evidence of a plant of special concern in the area, but neither this plant nor any threatened or endangered species were found during the field inspection of this property. All forest management practices are to follow best management practices for water quality. Information on best management practices is included with this plan.
